

LOWRY WAS DISCHARGED

Carman Killed Fellow-Workman in Self-Defense.

DID NOT PLEAD FOR HIM

She Was Not After the Usual Woman-kind, Who Weaken at the Last Moment—Dove Likely Not Innocent.

Justice Crutchfield had three typewritten pages inscribed with the names of wrong-doers before him yesterday morning. His Honor is meeting many of his friends among the law-breaking class now, and the renewal of acquaintance is costing them something.

The case of special interest yesterday was that of W. H. Lowry, the street-car man who stabbed and killed Charles E. Graham, a brother member of the union, some days ago. The case had been continued until yesterday. A number of witnesses were examined, and without exception all statements went to show that Lowry acted purely in self-defense, and only after Graham had declared repeatedly that he would kill him that night. Justice Crutchfield was ready with his sentence the moment the testimony had been concluded, and when the prisoner was discharged his friends crowded about him and offered congratulations.

The case of the youth, George Dove, was gone into at some length. Dove was charged with entering the house of Floyd Harris and stealing $10 in currency and a gold-filled watch. The accused was given a pass to the grand jury. Dove came from Christiansburg and for a short while had been employed on a small farm near the National Cemetery.

She Didn't Plead for Him.

Jack Hawkins, a white man, was before the tribunal for cursing and abusing his wife, Mandy Hawkins. Every one in court thought that at the last moment Mrs. Mandy would follow the course of womankind and beg "hubbey" off when she found that he was going to be punished, but she was made of "sterner stuff." When Justice John pronounced the full sentence the wife meekly said "Amen" in English, at least in action or inaction.

A serious charge rests against Ed. Pearman and Aurelius Jones. They were before the tribunal, alleged to have stolen from R. L. Johnson and received him of $17.50 in money, a watch valued at $5, a vest valued at $1 and street-car tickets valued at $2.50. The case went over until this morning.

R. L. Johnson was charged with being disorderly and creating a disturbance to the annoyance of the neighborhood. The case was made out and the accused were put under bonds to keep the peace.

Mary Polk was "rowing" on the street. She abused the privilege and was fined $5 therefor.

LAUNCHING SET AGAIN

To-Morrow N-on Named for Galveston to Go Overboard.

The launching of the Galveston is scheduled to take place to-morrow at noon. This is the third or fourth time the date of the launching of the stubborn cruiser has been set, a circumstance which proves that on the former occasions the thing did not occur. Whether it will come off this time or not, no man can say. The sponsor, Miss Ella Sealey, of Galveston, Tex., is now waiting around in this part of the United States for a month or more for the privilege of breaking a bottle of champagne over the prow of the vessel. Recently she has been in North Carolina visiting friends and awaiting the completion of the basin in which the new warrior is to take its initial plunge.

Lieutenant Groesbeck has notified Miss Sealey of the new date and she is expected to be here on time. She will be the guest of the government at the Jefferson. Later on the dredge Benuey is to be launched before very long, and then the two will be towed to Norfolk for completion.

The Negro Development and Exposition Company of the United States was organized here yesterday for the purpose of aiding in the centenary celebration at Jamestown in 1907. Jno. H. Smith, former minister to Liberia, is president; W. L. Johnson, vice-president; R. H. Hill, treasurer and J. B. Jackson, director general. The company proposes to raise $500,000 and then apply for charter as a number of prominent white men in different sections of the State have been asked to act as an advisory board. Among these are former Governor J. Hoge Tyler, of Pulaski; Messrs. Emanuel Beale and James P. Buchanan, of Richmond; Edward of Petersburg, and Gov. Aycock of North Carolina. A long list of vice-presidents selected from the various Southern States, have been chosen, and those behind the scheme say they propose to make it a success, and make a creditable contribution for the colored race to the proposed great blow.

"SUMMER FOOD" Has Other Advantages. Many people have tried the food Grape-Nuts, simply with the idea of avoiding the trouble of cooking food in the hot months. All of these have found something better in the ready cooked food idea, for Grape-Nuts is a scientific food that tones up and restores a sick stomach as well as repairs the waste tissue in brain and nerve centres.

For two years I had been a sufferer from indigestion of the stomach due to improper food and to relieve this condition I had tried nearly every prepared food on the market without any success until six months ago, my wife purchased a box of Grape-Nuts thinking it would be a desirable cereal for the summer months.

"We soon made a discovery; we were enchanted with the delightful flavor of the food and to my surprise I began to get well. My breakfasts now consist of a little fruit, four teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts, a cup of Postum, which I prefer to coffee; Graham bread or toast and two boiled eggs. I never suffer the least distress after eating this, and my stomach is perfect, and general health is better. Grape-Nuts is a wonderful preparation. It was only a little time after starting on it that wife and I both felt younger, more vigorous, and in all ways stronger. This has been our experience.

"P. S. The addition of a little salt in place of sugar does me to improve 'food.' Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

TUCKER FOR THE SENATE

He is Suggested as Successor to Mr. Martin.

OUR LANDS IN DEMAND

A Wealthy North Carolinian Discusses Their Value and Growing Appreciation—Growth of Foreign Commerce.

The Times-Dispatch Bureau, No. 1417 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., July 21st, 1903.

A well known man in Virginia politics, and one who is generally regarded as being well informed upon party affairs in the State, said to me to-day he believed Hon. H. St. George Tucker could be nominated to the United States Senate from Virginia.

"Although several prospective candidates for Senator Martin's seat have been mentioned," he said, "I believe all the anti-Martin men will unite on one man when the time comes, and in my opinion that man will be Hon. H. St. George Tucker. Tucker has not declared his candidacy, and he need not do so. The opposition to Senator Martin will simply lay its hand on the man who is the strongest to oppose the junior Senator, and that man will, in my judgment, be Mr. Tucker."

Harry Tucker is a statesman in its highest sense, by inheritance and by training and service. He was a distinguished member of Congress from the Tenth District from 1880 to 1901. He secured the passage by the House at two sessions of a constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States Senators by the people, and out of this undoubtedly grew the present primary plan in Virginia. It would be peculiarly appropriate for him to be the man to lead the first fight under that plan. As an attractive and forcible speaker I do not think Mr. Tucker has a superior in Virginia.

"The people have not forgotten how Mr. Tucker stuck to his principles in 1896, preferring death to the charge of being a turncoat. I know Mr. Tucker has just been elected to the position of dean of the law faculty of Columbia University," continued this Democrat, "but he is now and will remain a resident of Virginia. My words, everything is working towards the end I have indicated, and unless all signs fall there will be a new face in the United States Senate in 1908, and it will be that of Hon. H. St. George Tucker."

Mr. Tucker recently declared he would not be a candidate for Congress from the Tenth District. More recent and being discussed with friends the question of his being a candidate for Governor. He told the writer some weeks ago that he intended to remain a resident of Virginia, and was living here, and impressed upon me the fact that as a professor at Columbia he would teach more Virginia boys than if he occupied a similar position in almost any Virginia institution.

"The demand for Virginia farms must be unprecedentedly heavy at this time," said Mr. Durham, a wealthy lumberman of Tillery, N. C., to The Times-Dispatch last to-day. "A few months ago I was in Hanover county, not far from Ashland, and my attention was directed to the fact that a fine old place there was for sale. I thought of buying it and spoke to the real estate agent on the subject. A week or two after returning home I wrote the agent that I would take the farm at the price offered. In reply I received a letter stating that the farm had been purchased by a Northern man, and the agent also said that seven other farms in the county had also been sold since I had been there, all to Northern people. I think he said:

"I was astonished to learn that the demand for real estate in that locality was so great," continued Mr. Durham, "yet I am convinced that what are termed the 'worn-out' farms of Hanover and counties contiguous to Richmond could be made immensely valuable as dairy and truck farms. About ten years ago a man bought a farm of some two hundred acres near Burdette. The land was worn out, everybody said, but he began farming it carefully with a view to improving it and getting it set in grass. That man to-day is getting independently rich from imports of Jersey cattle on his place, and bears in mind he only paid two or three dollars an acre for his land. He sells the milk and butter to the Richmond and Petersburg markets. I have often thought seriously of giving up the lumbering business and going into dairying on a large scale near Richmond."

Mr. Durham is a Canadian, but has for fifteen years been manufacturing pine lumber in Halifax county, N. C.

"I came to North Carolina thoroughly convinced that the people of that State and of the South generally were unjust in their treatment of the negro," he said, "but I honestly believe now that the whites are too good to the blacks. I am willing to admit that there are a few good negroes, but all the good ones are old ones. Most of the young, able-bodied negroes of to-day are absolutely worthless. I have not the most serious of this country has ever faced. Its solution seems a long way off."

The foreign commerce of the United States in the fiscal year just ended is larger than in any preceding year in the history of the country. Figures issued by the Department of Commerce show the total of imports and exports to be for the year 1902 $2,448,041,242, as compared with $2,244,000,000 for 1901, which was the banner year prior to 1903. Imports were never so great, and exports greater than in any year since 1891. The total amounted to $1,925,619,127; the exports, $1,492,921,200.

Will Likely Be

HON. A. C. HARMAN

The City Democratic Committee will meet at Murphy's Hotel at 8 o'clock to-night to fix a plan for nominating a candidate for the State Senate to fill the new seat in that body created for Richmond by the new reapportionment bill.

From present indications Hon. A. C. Harman, one of the present House members, will be nominated without opposition.

So far, no one has indicated the slightest inclination to oppose Mr. Harman, and his record in the House appears to have been very satisfactory to his people. The committee has a great deal of other business, and the meeting will adjourn at 10 o'clock.
